SHARES REVIVE BUT BREXIT TURMOIL BATTERS POUND, EURO

RECAP: Most Southeast Asian stock markets rose on Friday amid hopes of a thaw in Sino-US trade relations, after tech shares and banks led a modest revival on Wall Street the day before. European stocks also recovered, but sterling and the euro remained fragile amid the turmoil surrounding the release of the draft Brexit agreement.

The SET index moved in a range of 1,638.57 and 1,673.42 points before closing at 1635.00, down 2% from the previous week, in turnover averaging 40.35 billion baht a day. Foreign investors were net sellers of 5.7 billion baht and institutional investors sold 2.72 billion worth of shares. Retail investors were net buyers at 6.8 billion baht and brokerage firms bought 1.6 billion.

NEWSMAKERS: British Prime Minister Theresa May suffered a huge blow on Thursday when four ministers including her Brexit secretary Dominic Raab quit as she tried to sell her proposed EU withdrawal agreement to a divided parliament.

- International Monetary Fund head Christine Lagarde said central banks around the world should consider issuing digital currency, which could make digital currency transactions safer.
- Oil prices have dropped to their lowest level in over eight months amid fears of a slowdown in demand. Benchmark Brent crude earlier this week slumped to $65.11 a barrel, down from around $85 less than two months ago.
- Italy's populist government has defied the European Commission by sticking to its big-spending budget plan, risking financial sanctions in a high-stakes standoff with Brussels.
